

Lesley Goodburn

National Institute for Health and
Care Excellence, UK

Lesley Goodburn has been involved in cancer research and healthcare improvement since 2014, when sadly her husband Seth died from pancreatic cancer 33 short and heart-breaking days after diagnosis.

Lesley shared Seths Story via a film, a play and educational resource with the aims of improving end of life care, helping raise awareness of the need for emotional and psychological support for people with a late-stage diagnosis with a short prognosis and improve grief and bereavement support.

She has been involved in the EORTC Patient Panel since 2019.
